

PROMPTS

CONFLICT AND THEME

1. Remember a particularly difficult problem you encountered recently. Explore it: how did it come about? Were other people involved? How did you solve it? After reflecting on these questions, put your realizations into writing!
2. Create a playlist of songs that speak to you, and pick out some lyrics that stand out. What are they trying to convey? Write a story inspired by the lyrics' message.

These are just exercises to get you started with developing conflict and theme. What you decide to create for your own fiction story is completely up to you.
